KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE AND INJURED

Mrs. John H. Broughton Struck Sunday Evening In Front Of Home

Mrs. Broughton, wife of Hon. John H. Broughton of Middle street, was struck by an automobile in front of her home early Sunday evening, and badly injured, suffering a fractured left arm and a bad shaking up.

The automobile was owned and driven by Mr. Burpee Wood who was returning from Exeter with a party of gentlemen. According to Mr. Wood's story, he was coming down the street shortly before seven o'clock, in fact was following the seven o'clock car in. At the head of Cass street, to get onto the other side of the street opened to travel further down, he crossed to the left hand side. He saw Mrs. Broughton get off the car and the car leave, and she stood in the middle of the street. He supposed that she was waiting there for him to pass and he came along although he had his machine out of gear. When almost abreast of Mrs. Broughton, she started to cross the street and he did everything possible, blowing his horn and throwing on his emergency brake but he could not check the car in time and the car struck her and drew her to one side.

Mr. Wood and the other gentlemen in the car as soon as the machine was brought to a standstill jumped out and ran to her assistance, and she was taken into the house. She did not lose consciousness but was suffering greatly.

Dr. John W. Parsons was called and assisted by Dr. J. J. Berry, an examination was made and Mrs. Broughton was found to have fractured her left arm above the wrist, and to be badly shaken up and bruised, especially about the shoulders and body. At first it was feared that several ribs had been broken.

Mrs. Broughton is a woman well along in years and the shock of the accident is liable to have a serious result.

The electric car off which Mrs. Broughton stepped, had reached the corner of Union street, according to the conductor, when he heard the scream of Mrs. Broughton, and stopped his car and ran back to see what was the matter. Mr. Wood did everything in his power to prevent the accident and supposed that Mrs. Broughton was going to remain in the middle of the street until he passed, but she evidently became bewildered and started across when the machine was almost on her. Mr. Wood was running without his headlights lighted, but it was almost daylight for the electric lights were not lighted and according to the automobile law the driver of a car has an hour after sunset to light his lamps.

ACCUSED OF BURGLARY IN PORTSMOUTH

Young Man Brought Before Police Court This Morning

Gives Name of Raymond Hartford and Is Said to Have Confessed

Hearing Begun and the First Case Is Continued Until Tuesday Morning

On Saturday the police arrested a young man by the name of Raymond Hartford on suspicion of being connected with the several burglaries which have taken place about the city within the last three or four months.

Hartford is stated to have admitted to the police that he had been into the store of Frank Leary two night last week and that he wrote the note, which he left on the counter, that read "Frank Lawrence has been here for the second time."

He claims that he was all alone in the job at Leary's and will not admit to any other breaks about the city. His trial was begun on another case today and he pleaded not guilty.

This case was continued until Tuesday morning when he will be heard again on the same case and that of breaking and entering the store of Mr. Leary.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND IN GREAT BAY

Floated Ashore Sunday Morning---Had Apparently Followed The Sea

The body of an unknown man was found on the shore of Great Bay near the property of Valentine Coleman of Newington on Sunday morning. The body had floated ashore during the night and was discovered by some boys who were "champing out" in the vicinity. They reported the matter to Mr. Coleman and he notified Master referee A. J. Lane and he went out and after viewing the body turned it over to Undertaker G. W. Ham.

The body had been in the water for some time and in a badly decomposed condition that the features are unrecognizable. There are, however, certain marks on the body by which it is thought he will be recognized by his friends.

The body is that of a man about 5 feet 9 inches in height and evidently a laboring man who has followed the sea at some time. On his left hand on the third finger, was a gold ring set with a large red stone, and on the middle finger a tattooed ring. On the left hand above the thumb was a small anchor and the forearm of the same arm was a full rigged ship with the date 1898 over it.

He was dressed in a dark suit with blue overalls and in his pockets were found a Waltham silver watch, a hunter's whistle and 80 cents in change. There was no evidence of foul play on the body and it was taken to the tomb until claimed.

BOSTON TO PORTLAND IN 123 MINUTES

Running Time of Special Train Was Fifty-five Miles an Hour

One of the fastest runs ever made by a passenger train on the Boston and Maine railroad occurred on Sunday over the Eastern division between Boston and Portland.

The train was a special with engine No. 537, Conductor Pickering and Engineer Jennings, and the passengers were the New England Railroad Superintendents' Association, who went on an outing to Portland.

The run of 123 miles was made in two hours and three minutes with a two-minute stop at Portsmouth.

Engineer Jennings has many times before handled the throttle on fast trips and hauled some famous men over the lines of the system, including Admiral Dewey on his trip to Vermont.

A TELEPHONE HEROINE

Could Have Saved Her Life But Warned Others

Trinidad, Col., Aug. 31—It was learned today that Mrs. S. P. Rooke, the Folsom telephone operator who lost her life in the flood, had ample time to escape. A resident of the hills telephoned to her about 11 o'clock Thursday night that the waters were rising rapidly, and that she would be flooded out within an hour if she did not leave. Instead of heeding the warning the little woman set herself to the task of saving others. Number after number on the telephone exchange was called up with the brief warning:

"Pack up and leave at once, a flood is coming down the valley."

Over 40 residents seen this morning said they had received the warning from the central office and prepared for the terrible emergency. Apparently Mrs. Rooke had not finished with the list of subscribers on the exchange when the flood reached her. Her body was found today 12 miles down the canyon. The headpiece worn by telephone operators still gripped her ears.

Between 20 and 25 dead, nearly half the town swept away, great damage to property and great loss of lives, stock tells the story of the flood at Folsom yesterday as revealed by refugees who reached this city today. Many are still missing, and several days may elapse before a complete list of dead is obtainable.

Only stone buildings and those on higher ground were left standing.

THEATRICAL FOLK

The Next Attraction

There is a very pretty love story as the background for that charmingly interesting romantic play, "The Girl of the Emerald Isle," which Miss Louise Vale is using for her starring part the present season. It is an intensely interesting story with sparkling comedy which serves to lighten up the dark places in the checkered life of Helmer Wyngate, and the ending is so ingeniously worked out to a happy one that it sends the audience home at the close of the performance in a happy frame of mind. At Music Hall on Tuesday evening, Sept. 1.

An Old Favorite

"There will always be a demand for plays which expose immoral methods, no matter which of the ten commandments is violated. And thus plays which treat of family life, will always be preferred, because society rests upon the family and the home. The play of the elemental passions, love and hate and jealousy, will always appeal to men and women." East Lynne is such a play.

Miss Petticoats

Says the Altoona, Pa., Times: "The last act begins with the audience wondering whether the minister and Miss Petticoats are to remain engaged or not. Mr. Twomey has cleverly arranged to keep them in suspense until the act is nearly over. Then they learn that the minister's words have borne fruit and Miss Petticoats has given up her plan of vengeance. The audience departs with the knowledge that there will be a wedding on the "Old Harpoon," the home of her childhood.

The scenic equipment was all that could be desired. The first act, which represents the old "Harpoon," was particularly attractive. One could almost smell the salt sea air.

Miss Florine Farr, who assumed the title role, is a young lady of rare ability and pleasing personality, combined with a beautiful voice and a great deal of reserve force. In the strong scene at the end of the third act she was particularly effective.

Next Twomey in the role of Ralph Twomey, the minister, easily met all requirements and the entire cast merits the highest praise.

ATLANTIC CITY HAS DRY SUNDAY.

Saloons Live Up to Letter of Fort's Proclamation.

BIG CAFES ARE DESERTED.

Loss of Drink Privileges Evidently Carries With It a Big Loss in Sale of Foodstuffs—Liquor Interests to Appeal to Legislature in Hope of Receiving Some Sort of Relief.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 31.—A great dry Sunday came to Atlantic City yesterday. Many persons familiar with the history of this resort have been inclined to doubt the possibility of such a thing, but yesterday every one of the 220 saloons and hotel bars were closed. They were closed alike to bona fide guests as well as to strangers. It is said that this was the fourth time in the fifty-four years of its existence that a drinkless day had been experienced in Atlantic City.

A bulletin posted at police headquarters stated: "Saloons all closed. No troops in town." Another bulletin, officially signed by the chief of police, consisted of a card on which was printed: "In 1861 it was found the fact. Today it's 'Fort hold you'."

Governor Fort's proclamation of last week, containing a threat to send troops to the seashore in the event of a further violation of the Sunday closing law, had its effect.

Saloonkeepers and hotel men reluctantly accepted the address of the mayor and the more conservative members of the saloon men's organization and closed their places of business as tightly as they knew how. Screens came down Saturday night and board walk cafes that on Sundays past have been thronged to their almost capacity, serving liquors and food, were all but deserted yesterday.

A visit during the height of the afternoon crush on the board walk to one of the most widely known cafes facing the famous seashore thoroughfare disclosed the fact that not a single patron was in the place.

There was a decided decrease in the size of the visiting throng, though many persons came from Philadelphia and New York out of sheer curiosity to see what Atlantic City, the playground of the cities, looked like on a dry Sunday. The weather was well high and hot and ordinarily, the barkeepers declared, they would have had their facilities taxed to handle the crowds. The majority of the board walk multitude, however, seemed not to mind the change of conditions, and enjoyed themselves in other ways. The gay night scenes in the cafes, the music and the singing, were perhaps missed more than any other feature of the resort's changed Sunday life.

A spokesman for the affected liquor interests, and one of the local political leaders, declared that the loss of Sunday's closing would amount approximately to $150,000. He declared that the saloons would close every Sunday hereafter until some warrant of how will permit of their remaining open.

"We will appeal to the legislature when it meets in January, and have high hopes of securing some sort of relief," he said. "We will work for the passage of a local option law which will put the question squarely up to the people of the city and county. We have been keeping open in the past as the result of a public sentiment, which we believed to be in our favor. If we are wrong we are willing to abide by the decision of our own people. The permanent closing of the saloons and hotel bars unquestionably will hurt the resort and none of us want to see that."

The authorities of the city were much pleased with the thorough manner in which the law was complied with. Chief of Police Woodruff stated that he had expected there would be a number of arrests for excise violations, but there were none.

WAR VETERANS GATHERING.

Boston, Aug. 31.—The vanguard of thousands of veterans of the Spanish-American war arrived in Boston yesterday to attending the fifth annual encampment of the United States Spanish War Veterans, which will begin tonight. These men were members of the regular volunteer army, navy and marine corps who served during the war with Spain or during the insurrection in the Philippines.

MISTOOK BODY FOR LOG.

Claremont, N. H., Aug. 31.—The body of an unknown man was found by George Guers, who was rowing on the Connecticut river, about fifty feet from the shore. People who had seen the body sticking out of the water for the last four days thought it was a log stuck in the mud and did not molest it. The man was between 50 and 60 years of age.

ATHLETES VISIT SAGAMORE HILL.

Congratulated by President on the Olympic Victories.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Today is Olympic day on Sagamore Hill, where President Roosevelt received the men who placed the colors of this nation over those of all others at the Olympic games in London recently. The party arrived at Oyster Bay from New York on the steamer Sagamore. The steamer ran in close to the W. E. Taft pier and small boats were used by the party in disembarking. The athletes walked the half mile from the pier to Sagamore Hill.

When the victorious team reached the house the president was found waiting to gratify the desire, expressed by him in his telegram to the manager, which he sent to London shortly after the finish of the games, that he might be able to grasp each one of them by the hand and personally congratulate him on the victory.

The president was introduced to each of the men by James E. Sullivan, American commissioner to the Olympic games. The president made a short address to the athletes. Some light refreshments were served to the men and they returned to New York by steamer.

CHILDREN KITTEN BY DOG.

Boston, Aug. 31.—Kitten by a dog which is believed to have been mad, Mary A. Callahan and Peter Murphy are patients in Carney hospital. The dog suddenly attacked a group of children on Athens street, South Boston. All managed to get out of the way except the little Callahan girl and the Murphy boy. They were bitten in several places before a police officer finally shot the animal. For a time the dog held complete control of Athens street, the majority of the residents locking themselves indoors.

IS VERY MUCH ALIVE.

Middleboro, Mass., Aug. 31.—Thomas Fagan, reported to have been killed in a railroad accident in Kansas two months ago, suddenly walked in on his parents yesterday. Fagan explained the rumor of his death by saying that while he was in Kansas his clothes were stolen and the man who took them was evidently the victim of the accident. Fagan's father had made several efforts to have the body of the man killed forwarded to Middleboro, but was unable to do so.

AN INJUSTICE TO BOSTON.

Boston, Aug. 31.—In a report made public by the finance commission, which has spent several months probing the city's financial condition, it is stated that Boston bears the whole of the expense of the administration of affairs in Suffolk county and that the cost of such administration is grossly excessive. The report says that in fifteen years there has been an increase in expenditures of 37 percent, while the income has increased only 40 percent.

CONSTITUTION FOR CHINA.

Peking, Aug. 31.—An edict has been issued setting forth in detail the stages that will be reached each year in the conversion of the form of government in China to the foreign system, and assuring the people in the name of the emperor that a constitution will be granted nine years hence. An edict issued last year provided a constitution within a decade.

PROUTY IS SURE OF ELECTION.

Vermont Is Always Loyal to the Republican Party.

SIZE OF HIS PLURALITY.

It Is Supposed to Indicate What the Result of National Contest Will Be --Democrats Have Won Presidency When Their Vermont Brethren Have Kept Republican Plurality Below 25,000.

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 31.—With the national politicians as critical spectators, Vermont will set the pace tomorrow for the fall elections by voting for governor, congressmen and members of the state legislature which will choose at the next session a successor to the late Senator Proctor.

As the state has never wavered in its loyalty to the Republican party, the success of Lieutenant Governor Prouty, the candidate for governor, is already anticipated by the Democrats, so that the interest in the election centres in the size of his plurality over James E. Burke, the leader on the Democratic ticket.

Astute politicians profess to be able to obtain from these plurality figures some indication of the attitude of the people on national issues, especially after campaigns such as the present one this year, in which such questions have been prominent.

It is pointed out that since 1881, whenever the Republican plurality for governor at the fall election preceding that for president has dropped below 25,000, the Democrats have been successful in the national contest.

The total vote for governor in Vermont for the past thirty-two years has averaged about 67,000, running as high as 70,681 in 1880, when Farnum was elected over Phelps after a particularly warm campaign. The Republican plurality, however, has fluctuated from 17,556 in 1892 to 36,830 in 1906. In odd years the pluralities have been somewhat less, due principally to local issues.

The Socialist vote in Vermont averages about 1500 and the Prohibition a trifle less.

This year the smaller parties will have an addition in the Independence League, whose candidate for governor, Quimby F. Backus, has spoken frequently during the campaign, and has received some assistance from Thomas L. Hagen, the presidential nominee.

The size of the vote for Quimby will also be studied as bearing on the national result.

In the compilation of the vote on Tuesday night, however, only that for governor for the candidates for the two leading parties will be attempted, comparison being made with the vote for governor in the September election in 1906.

It will be some days, therefore, before the size of the vote for the other candidates for governor is ascertained.

ONE PASSENGER KILLED.

Hingham, Mass., Aug. 31.—A single track two electric cars going in opposite directions crowded together so that those standing on the inside running board of a crowded car which was returning from Nantasket beach were severely crushed. Harry Blanchard was so badly injured that he died in a short time.

MADE TWENTY-ONE KNOTS.

Rockland, Me., Aug. 31.—The battleship Montana was given another unofficial standardization trial over the Rockland course. Sixteen runs were made over a measured mile course. The best mile was at the rate of a little better than twenty-one knots. An all-time record which occurred in the engine room is said to have prevented faster time.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFINGS.

While walking on an embankment of the Wachusett dam, Clinton, Mass., Frank Blod, aged 19, fell into the water and was drowned.

Captain Stephen Cote, aged 55, who had been sailing out of Gloucester, Mass., for the last twenty-five years and who commanded several fishing schooners at various times, died from a fractured skull caused by falling from a vessel at Gloucester, his head striking a ladder.

Governor Guilt of Massachusetts, who has been confined in a hospital since he was operated upon for appendicitis, is able to sit up.

John D. Brockfeller has offered Hitchcock college $150,000, on condition that the Baptists of Virginia raise an additional $250,000.

While four men held revolvers to his head, Harry Barchard, an Italian, was robbed of $14 and then bound to a tree where the robbers left him on the road between Tewksbury and Wilmington, Mass.

Joseph Winn was found in Hibernia, Mass., lying on the opposite side of the road from the electric car tracks with his legs cut off. None of the car drivers could give any information of the accident and the police are investigating.

Arthur Lamontagne, aged 40, a mill employee, was struck and killed by an electric car at Fall River, Mass.

Another test of sentiment will come with the Maine election on Sept. 15. The Republicans do not expect to get as large a plurality as they did four years ago, but are struggling to secure from 12,000 to 15,000, which the state Republican leaders term their nominal plurality. Overconfidence on the part of Republicans in the east is the thing which the managers of the national campaign are trying to guard against.

More speakers of national reputation will be used by both parties in the campaign in New York than any other state, according to the present outlook. The Democrats are making an earnest effort to unite on some man for governor who will have the support of the entire party behind him. "The Republicans are divided now, and it is not expected that the state convention will pass without some bitterness developing over the governorship. The race for this office is sure to be spirited and inevitably must have some bearing up on the national ticket."

The speaking campaign throughout the entire country will open about Sept. 15, and from that time on political rallies will closely follow each other in every state where there is the slightest doubt as to the result.

DEBS ON THE STUMP.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Eugene V. Debs, presidential candidate of the Socialist party, who left for a tour of the western country today in a special train, addressed an audience of several thousand persons at a Socialist picnic in Belmont yesterday and for two hours hurled broadsides into the camps of the Republican and Democratic parties. He denounced the "capitalist class," "Tart Bryan and the prohibitionists," and the "wage slaves who never had and never will have other money or sense."

Just before Debs concluded his discourse somebody in the crowd shouted "How about Gompers?"

"Oh, Gompers?" rejoined the speaker. "I'll pay my respects to him later. Today I am discussing only five topics."

TAFT TAKING A REST.

Middle Bass Island, N. Y., Aug. 31.—William H. Taft and party arrived at the Middle Bass club at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. After a five-hour sleep the candidate breakfasted and later attended services in the little chapel.

He rested throughout the remainder of the day. The fourteen speeches which Taft delivered Saturday in the unexpected campaigning he did on the trip through Ohio from Virginia Hot Springs left their impress on his voice, but aside from the hoarseness and his declaration that he felt a little tired, he said he was little the worse for wear. While the week on the fishing grounds is primarily for recreation, it is understood several political conferences may be held.

BYRON ON ANOTHER TOUR.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 31.—William J. Bryan has started on another speaking tour. He will speak today at the state fair grounds at St. Paul, his remarks dealing with the subject of government extravagance. Three other speeches will be delivered before he returns here Thursday. These will be at Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D., and Sioux City, Ia. No political talk will be discussed, but it is the intention of Bryan to deal generally with the issues of the campaign.

GREETED AS BROTHERS.

Americans Receive a Grand Welcome at Melbourne.

FORMALLY LANDED TODAY.

All Classes and Creeds, Regardless of Age, Unite in Displaying Spirit of Fraternalism—City a Blaze of Color, Not a House or Business Building Being Without an Emblem of Good Cheer.

Melbourne, Aug. 31.—The formal entry of the Americans into Melbourne took place today. Admiral Sperry and his staff landed at the St. Kilda pier, where they were met by Prime Minister Deakin, the premier of Victoria, Sir Thomas Kent, and the other members of the commonwealth and state authorities.

The other officers of the American fleet and bluejackets and marines, to the number of more than 2000, landed at Port Melbourne pier at 9:15 a. m. From that point they marched, twelve deep, past Port Melbourne and South Melbourne town halls, to St. Kilda road, the southern approach to the city, where the densest masses of sightseers had assembled. The school children gathered there and formed themselves into a tableau, giving a great welcome to the men.

It was a blustery day and clouds of dust somewhat marred the spectacle, but, notwithstanding the threat of rain, the city never had such crowded streets.

The dominant note since the arrival of the fleet has been a deep and universal spirit of fraternalism, which has permeated all classes and creeds, without regard to age. Thousands were early astir and by the time the procession passed they occupied the points of vantage for the six miles of the route.

Gorgeous decorations were to be seen everywhere. From Princess bridge the line of march took its way through Swanston street, Bonlie, William and Collins streets to the treasury, and thence on to the exhibition building. All of the buildings were a blaze of color, flags hung everywhere, and streamers in profusion stretched across the streets. Not a single house or business building was without an emblem of good cheer. The windows, the balconies and roofs were thronged.

It was more like a triumphal march than a parade of visiting soldiers, and the fervor of the Australians' welcome was almost indescribable. The exhibition building was reached at 12:15, where a public reception was held in honor of the officers and men by Lord Northcote, the governor general, and Sir Thomas Cranfield, after which the visitors were entertained at luncheon.

Sunday was a "free day," nothing in the way of formal entertainments having been arranged for the visitors, but those who came ashore from the warships managed to spend some enjoyable hours. Seventeen military bands arrived Sunday from the various centers throughout the country, bringing into Melbourne a large body of cavalry which will participate in the grand review on Thursday.

Twenty-five hundred men of the ships were given shore leave Sunday, of which 1600 marched to St. Patrick's cathedral. The Americans were preceded by 2000 cadets, and a number of bands were in the procession. The streets were thronged with spectators, who gave the men a hearty welcome.

Special services were held in all the Protestant churches and later the Melbourne Automobile club, in 100 cars, took the officers of the fleet to view the points of interest in the city and the suburbs. During the course of the afternoon numerous private entertainments were given.

There were comparatively few visitors to the warships, owing to the distance the vessels are lying from shore, but those who made the trip were enthusiastic in their expressions of admiration for the beauty and powerful appearance of the American men-of-war.

Much informal individual hospitality was shown to the sailors and marines, and many of the officers and men enjoyed the pleasure of Sunday meals at the family board.

BECAUSE SUPPER WAS LATE.

Woman Killed by Angry Husband, Who Then Attempts His Own Life. Westerly, R. I., Aug. 31.—Because his wife did not have his supper ready when he reached home last evening, James A. Tefft, a stevedore, discharged a shotgun at her at close range, killing her instantly. When some of the neighbors rushed into the house upon hearing the shot they found Tefft in a kneeling position on the floor, with the muzzle of the double-barreled gun at his neck, while he was trying to reach the trigger and explode the remaining charge. Tefft was disarmed and placed under arrest.

"I thought more of my wife than I did of my own life," he declared. "I killed her and was going to take my own life because I couldn't get along with her."

Tefft is 45 years old. The couple had been married twelve years. They had no children. The police believe that Tefft is a victim of insanity. It is said that his father died in the Rhode Island insane hospital, and that a sister has been an inmate of the same institution.

She was later picked up by the Wood Island life savers and returned to the owners. The yacht herself was extremely lucky not to be swamped.

The condition of Mrs. Daniel Frisbee is happily much improved.

LOUISE VALE

What They Thought of "The Girl of the Emerald Isle" in Lewiston

The Lewiston Journal of Aug. 25 said:

"Quality will win, whether it be as a commercial commodity or an amusement. In fact one may dare not anticipate success today, unless quality be the factor by which or through which they gain their end."

At the Empires Theatre Monday there began a three days' engagement of a company new to the theatrical calendar of Lewiston and Auburn.

Preliminary announcements predicted that this company was one of merit. The rise of the curtain last evening was all that was necessary to prove the truth of such announcements, for Miss Louise Vale and her able support were a delightful surprise to theatre patrons who were fortunate enough at being among the audience.

The opening play of Miss Vale and her company was a sweet love drama entitled "The Girl of the Emerald Isle." It is a pretty piece, the scenes of which are laid in Wales and Ireland. The story of the play treats of man's selfishness and woman's suffering for a most noble cause.

Stephen Wingate, tiring of his beautiful wife and promising boy, finds it possible to free himself from an unbecoming legal fatality in his marriage with a true and faithful woman. His desire is to be a man of wealth. In his present position he seems against him, being young, handsome and worldly, a wealthy young woman falls in love with him at the same time that it is discovered his moral wife is not his legal wife. Taking advantage of his position and losing what manhood he possessed, he leaves this poor woman and child to suffer while he realizes the height of his ambition. His marriage to the woman of position is one of happiness for a time. Shortly after they are married she dies and he is left with a young daughter. Twenty years elapse between the first two acts. Act two brings the scenes to Ireland where the forsaken are living upon the legacy of the mother's sister. The son has grown to be a clever artist and the mother's happiness is almost complete.

Twenty years has wrought many changes, but remorse is constantly the companion of Wynegate. He pays a visit to Ireland, and there meets the woman and child he has wronged. Bowed with repentance he seeks the woman to whom he first gave his love and pleads a reconciliation but to no avail. The last act is located in the ruins of Fremont Hall, Ireland. It is here that the most pathetic scenes of the drama happily re-awed Wynegate and his noble love, and what seemed impossible is most happily brought about in a sweet subtle manner.

The play is absorbingly interesting, with its pretty plot, its delicate dialog and noble theme.

As a production it was mounted beautifully and artistically correct. Especially true is this of the typical room in the hunter's lodge, Wales, also the impressive ruins of Fremont Glen, Ireland.

Of the acting company which Manager Vale has seen fit to offer Lewiston and Auburn, words are ineffable to show the appreciation of thirty-two years. Miss Vale is a woman of rare ability. In her emotional scenes she displayed the true worth of the actress, while her noble cause was impressive by the perfect conception of her character. Miss Vale is a capable actress. Her work of Monday leads us to expect great things during her limited stay in this city.

As Wynegate, Arthur Rutledge gave a masterful portrayal. His fine voice added to the impressive character he portrayed. Franklyn Mun, well as the other principals, were noticeable among the principals. This young man read his lines in a most charming manner. The entire cast was excellent and one which, in a stock company, is unparalleled for dramatic work of ability. The initial performance of this organization was a happy surprise to all and their engagement for the next two days should be capacity, the result of such deserving merit.

"The Girl of the Emerald Isle" will be at Music Hall, Portsmouth, Tuesday evening, Sept. 1.

IN DAINTY LINGERIE

EXTREME SHEERNESS OF MAT-—RIAL IS THE REQUISITE.

For the Girl of Limited Means the Use of Long Cloth with Hamburg Embroidery or Torchon Lace is Advised.

The girl who wears dainty things, who considers personal cleanliness primary importance, finds the question of up-to-date lingerie a serious problem. The lavish use of uncertain fabrics for underwear and the unscrupulous use of strong soaps and powerful washing powders by hand-dresses combine to play havoc with even a liberal dress allowance.

The day of light-weight muslins, cambric and long cloth for lingerie is about spent, and yet in the face of fashion's sternest decree the girl of limited means should employ a fine grade of long cloth for the bulk of her house-made underwear, combining with it a good grade of Hamburg embroidery or torchon lace.

Nothing can compare with this combination for hand wear and regular laundrying, and a high-priced piece of long-cloth will launder as easily and wear much better than some of the sheer lacy fabrics.

Cheap lace is the worst possible investment, especially point de Paris, Stick to German val, torchon, and just now, if you are so fortunate as to know the Irish stitch, an edging and insertion of hand-made Irish crochet.

Generally speaking, the tendency of up-to-date lingerie is toward extreme sheerness of material, simplicity in design and exquisite care in fitting. The princess and draped skirts both require perfectly-fitted underwear, and the woman of well-developed figure, as well as her heavyweight sister, is going in for light, and carefully avoiding full of any sort.

The woman who wears old-style lingerie selects well-cut designs, such as combination suits, which include drawers and corset covers, or corset covers and short skirts, princess slips, etc.

One of the distinct fads with women of well-fitted pieces is the soft satin skirt, which has completely supplanted the tabata skirt. And really this is not so expensive as it sounds.
A good grade of muscadine can be bought at sales for 10 cents a yard.

For evening wear a princess slip of white mesaline will do duty for several frocks, white batiste, or one of delicate tint, a black and white or even a black voile, marquisette or similar weave. The woman of middle age who wears much black, gray, lavender, etc., will take great comfort and find good use for a drop skirt of silvery gray mesaline.

These satin skirts are fitted perfectly over the hips and finished with a set-on flounce of the same material.
This can be ornamented with hand-run tucks and embroidered in self-tone or harmonious tints with dots or rings.
Lace is combined with the white and delicately tinted skirts, but the black and subdued colorings show embroidery of feather stitching rather than lace.

China silk is also in great demand for drop skirts and petticoats and in the 36-inch width cuts to excellent advantage. For a dressy skirt, net, lace and ribbon are combined for trimming.

Another remarkable feature of the season in lingerie is the quantity of colored materials used. Prominent among these are what is known as the Dolly Varden sets, made from daintily figured lawns and batistes, trimmed with val lace and set off by matching ribbons. The illustration shows a square-necked negligee developed from a handy remnant of embroidered flouncing, delicate lavender on white.
The neck is cut square and finished with galloon to match the flouncing.

Use of a Flatiron.

It isn't every young woman who knows the value and economy of the flatiron. I see hundreds of women in a week who look shabby and floppy just because their vests, coats, skirts and trimmings generally need pressing. Lady's maids spend hours and hours over the ironing board so as to insure their mistresses' gowns and coats looking well groomed. Notice at your next evening party the number of tumbled lace tuckers, cravat and messy odds and ends which give their wearers such a disheveled appearance. It doubles the life of a coat and skirt to iron it periodically.
It's an economical and smart habit to start a pressing day occasionally and smooth over your entire wardrobe.
Try it and you will be surprised at the difference it makes in your appearance.—Exhaggo.

THE SEASON OF FAIRS

The New Hampshire Circuit Ready For Big Shows—Rochester Next To Last

Concord, N. H., Aug. 31.—The depart of New Hampshire fall fairs, which opens at Greenfield next week, is considerably changed this season from past years. Two of the large fairs, those at Nashua and Concord, have withdrawn, but Plymouth has come in, and by arrangement of dates the circuit is still complete.

Following Greenfield, the Concord state fair takes the dates beginning Labor Day, which the Nashua fair used to have. The Coos county fair will be held at Lancaster the same week. Concord was to have followed, taking the old Concord dates, but the change made in the Connecticut valley has given a clear field to the Newmarket fair, which has developed remarkably in the last few years.

The next week, the last full week in September, comes the famous Rochester fair, and the circuit will end the week after that at Plymouth.

The two largest fairs, those at Concord and Rochester, have new managers this year. Lewis B. Hoyt, who had been general manager of the state fair at Concord since its inception, died last fall, and has been succeeded by Col. Charles H. Hoyt, formerly secretary of the fair. Col.
Hoyt is a successful farmer and proficient in garage work. In looking after preliminary details of the fair he is assisted by Mrs. Hoyt, one of the best known young women in the state.

Rochester's new manager, is Alderman Frank B. Mazure, a veteran of the show business.

In connection with its exhibit, occupying 200 square feet at this year's Concord state fair, the State College will introduce a new feature of university extension work. Each morning some of the fair experts from the college and the attached experimental station will speak and give practical demonstrations of fruit raising, grafting, etc. And each afternoon there will be a similar showing of home dairy work.

Water as an Anesthetic.

It is said that a surgeon of Berlin has accidentally discovered that water may be used as an anesthetic. He was experimenting with cocaine to see how small a quantity of it might be used locally for minor operations, when he made the discovery about water. A small quantity is injected under the skin, and the effect is to render the flesh at that point insensible to pain. The water causes a slight swelling resembling that caused by the sting of a gnat, and the space marked by the swelling remains insensible for several minutes.

The Black Sheep.

"What," asked the man who had returned to his native town after an absence of many years, "because of Ed Ferguson?"

"Ed? Oh, he's done fine. Got the best lively stable anywhere around here and runs the depot hack."

"Let's see; he had a younger brother, didn't he?"

"Yes; Lem. He never amounted to much. Wrote poetry and painted pictures. I guess the family kind of his owned him. At least, he went away several years ago, and I dunno what ever became of him."

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but a new modern science proves that nearly all disease
have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter
and purify the blood—
that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr.
Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys.
The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Bingehamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

DAILY FASHION TALKS

BY MAY MANTON

A SIMPLE SHIRT WAIST GOWN.

THE simple shirt waist dress is the one that fills so many needs that it properly belongs in every wardrobe and just now, when outings of various sorts are being planned, it is admirable made from linen, from chambray and all materials of the sort. This one combines a tucked blouse with skirt that is trimmed in a novel and distinctive fashion and which allows effective use of the fashionable stripes on plain color. In this case the gown
itself is made of pale blue linen
while the trimming is bands of black and white
stripe cut bias
and the whole
cost is an exceedingly modest one while the gown is chic
and attractive as well as eminently useful. The plain goes of the skirt make it easy to launder in spite
of its trimming,
and the blouse
being tucked for its full length is one of the simplest that the laundress has to handle. If the semi-princess
style is liked it
can very easily
be obtained by joining the two by means of a
belt, as the opening of both
blouse and skirt
is made at the left of the front.
The usefulness
of the design is not limited to the gown, however, for the blouse could be made from thinner material while the skirt is made from mohair or serge or from khaki or heavy
flannel suiting.

For the medium size will be required, for the blouse 3 1/2 yards of material 21, 3 1/2 yards 32 or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches wide; for the skirt 11 yards 21, 7 1/2 yards 32 or 5 1/2 yards 44 inches wide for plain material without figure or nap but if it must be cut one way, 12 yards 21, 9 yards 32 or 6 1/2 yards 44 inches wide will be needed. A May Manton pattern of the blouse, No. 6070, sizes 32 to 42 inches bust, or of the skirt, No. 6051, sizes 22 to 32 inches waist, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents for each. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

COULD NOT UNDERSTAND IT

Baron Sternburg's Popularity in America Resented by Germans at Home

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Even Baron Speck von Sternburg's death failed to silence the cables whose intrigues continued heavily to the burden of sar-row which the late ambassador to the United States bore during the closing days of his life.

Certain elements in Germany—strangely enough among them the spokesmen of the so-called liberal classes—could never forgive the naive little Saxon baron for allowing himself to get into American ways of doing and saying things.

One of the appreciations published in regard of the ambassador's death charges him with seeking to accomplish diplomatic undertakings which were far beyond his capacities when he is intentionally meant the Ger-man's failure to induce the Ameri-

of carrying around an extremely red you are foolish to stand it long; it is the simplest and easiest thing in the world to get rid of. No matter what might have been the cause, the following harmless and inexpensive treatment will positively remove all traces of your embarrassment in from two to four weeks.

Mix and apply to the parts affected as often as possible, but morning powdery film deposited on the skin.

For any skin troubles this has no equal.

BLACK NET OVER TINTS.

Mode of Former Generation That Has Been Restored.

Black net over faded tints has come to the fore again. Dull pale grays, smoked blues, queer pinks and that faded shade of mauve which has been in style all season are used under both black and white net and lace, a most becoming mode for our mothers' generation and very smart for young matrons.

The mistake most women make when they line a black frock with a color is to make a belt and a bow of this color for the outside of the frock.
Omit these if you would have the frock look its best.

Trim it with bands of black net lace. The expensive ones now have this lace hand embroidered in what is known as ribbon braid. If you have the time and the skill go to this trouble, it will result in a handsome frock; but a good quality of flax lace serves well enough for most purposes.

You can use the ribbon braid to good effect in small quantities at neck and sleeves. Buy it in black and use a bold design, such as a Greek border, or a wall of Troy or octopus or chrysanthemum. This ribbon braid embroidery is quite pretty and seems to have caught on and become the fashion of the moment.

In these frocks it is also wise to adopt the new fashion of a black yoke and stock instead of a white one.
These yokes are made of Mechlin net, which is rather fine with a tiny circle over it. This is trimmed and may be embroidered with either velvet or ribbon braid.

If one must have a touch of white next the face then make the lower yoke of the black net, and the upper V-shaped chemise with stock of white lace. Put a touch of white lace in the sleeves in addition to the black net.

One of the attractive new ways of doing this; that is, of adding white lace to black on a sleeve, is to have almost straight small sleeve of the net run around the arm in tiny tucks which do not meet, and, therefore, leave about two inches of fullness down the center back.

The white lace is used in the three and four-inch width and is laid around the back of the arm with scallops coming forward. Another piece is laid around the bottom of sleeve with scallops upward.

These black net frocks must carry a handsome giraffe to be really smart, but it should be of black satin or taffeta, and not in any color. It is boned, usually on the waist, giving a wrapped appearance by being folded irregularly, and finished at left front with two loops and long ends. This can be caught with a jet buckle.

NEW PARASOLS.

Very valuable are some of the new parasols—handsome and handsome as well. One new ones in deep pink crimson, lined with crystal and velvet.

Animals and birds are very popular also. A large peacock's head in old fogy with rapax eye is effective. Another bird's head in green and blue is charming. They fans to match the parasol are concealed in the handles.

Couvre Pieds of Lace.

Every Parisian "grande dame" owns a charming square of brocade interlined with lamb's wool and trimmed with yards of lace, ribbon and plaited silk or satin. It looks like some airy nothing, merely intended to give the appearance of complete daintiness to the bonnets. But it is really useful.
It serves to cover the feet when the weather is cold at night; it does to keep midway from catching cold during the afternoon siesta, and at all times it is an adornment to the room.

It is, of course, mostly for winter use, but in summer one sews for winter, so why not make such a charming thing, if not for one's self, then for a present to some friend? The center, which is about a yard square, is quilt-ed, and hand quilting is beautiful and not difficult.

Dainty Little Jacket.

Such a dainty little jacket was seen recently that the writer wants to describe it. This garment would make a delightful gift to an invalid or an elderly woman who is going to mountain or seashore for the summer. It was in fine white wool (cocoche), combined with a delicate color, such as pink, blue or mauve. The square yoke was of the color and supported a full bow, which covered the hips. The sleeves, in bell shape, were wide, and in order to give weight to goods so airy and fluffy the border around the jacket and the edges of sleeves were threaded with ribbon to match the color of wool.
The price was $3.50.—Chicago American.

LONG SASH A BOON

GIVES TONE TO FROCKS NOT
—QUITE IN LATEST STYLE.

Now Worn So Broad as Entirely to Conceal the Waist Line—illustration Shows One of the Latest Effects.

One of the features of this season's fashions which the woman who has frocks that are not quite in the latest style and have been kept over from last year may well rejoice to see is the long sash now so much in vogue for summer frocks. The great value of the sash in the alteration of a frock is the fact that it is now worn so broad that it may entirely conceal the waist line. The short waist line now so necessary can perfectly well be secured, and in the most graceful fash-

Fascinating New Sash.

ion, by the use of the sash. This season's eccentricities in dress make it possible to secure much more variety in the wearing of sashes than usual, for whereas it was once obligatory to have the hanging ends of the sash in the back they are now worn at the back, sides, fronts or midway between any of these points, according to the taste of the wearer.
The deep giraffe, carried at the back, then ends being crossed to the front, tied a little to the left and then left to hang straight, as shown, is perhaps the most fashionable style of wearing the sash. Very supple satin, crepe, chiffon or some equally soft and gracefully draping fabric is used for these sashes.

Black sashes of the sort shown in the cut are extremely effective when properly employed, and on black and white gowns are one of the most effective features of the trimming. They are also used on figured and striped materials which have a touch of black in them, as, for instance, on many of the figured muslins and foulards in which there is a line of black, although the color does not enter promi-nently into the pattern. The use of black in this way, provided, of course, that there is some black in the pattern, however slight, does not seem to be so difficult as the trimming of light gowns with black in many other ways.

Glossy Locks Now Favored.

There was a time when fluffy locks, the sort that the novelists could refer to as being blown about the heroine's face in "fragrant strands," had entirely vanquished those former ideals which obtained in the days when hair was immortalized by the daguertypist.
Nowadays, however, the glossy head has regained its former prestige, and more than ever before must locks be smooth and shining. Brilliant—that old so often poeared on troubled waves—is being revived in effect by an old practice revived. In every smart French hairdresser's shop are lengths of fine, supple silk to be seen in constant use. With these the hair is stroked and rubbed until it shines with an almost metallic brilliancy, quite different from the smooth shine given by brillianine. As well as giving a satiny surface to the hair it is said to be most beneficial, for silk is full of electricity and this promotes the growth of the hair.

Get Coat Hangers.

It is talking the little troubles with clothes that makes all the difference possible in the appearance of a woman.

A good and sensible investment is a set of hangers, of wood or wire, which can now be purchased at small cost.
Each coat or undies should have a hanger of its own.

Nothing spoils the appearance of a garment as hanging it by the loop at the back of the neck. Thus hung, the shoulders are dragged, and the fit of the collar ruined.

Crépe on Hats.

Many of the hats in the shops are finished with a little bit of crépe and just to add color. Sometimes it borders the satin ribbon which is used for the big cabbage bow, sometimes it appears in a band round the crown and sometimes it is used as a piping around the very edge of the brim. In any case it is pretty and Frenchy, and, indeed, it helps greatly to give a hat that desirable appearance of thought which is the making of every article of dress.

The gunboat Paducah lost a propeller in the Gulf of Mexico in the same way that the Dabague lost hers in Long Island Sound. The gunboats are twin vessels, were both bound for New York, and both reported the accident to the navy department on the same day.

The riggers from the equipment department are engaged in overhauling and painting the wireless telegraph pole at the station on Seavey's Island.

One of the first drafts of female nurses, from the new corps that is soon to be formed from graduates of schools of nursing after passing the required examinations will be made for the naval hospital at Canacao, Ceylon. MISSING FROM A COAL SCHOONERSchooner Engineer May Be Man Whose Body Was Found in Great Bay

The body found on Sunday in Great Bay is believed to be that of Edward Schoenies, a German, the engineer on the four-masted schooner Mary E. G. Dow.

He was reported missing from the vessel Aug. 24, in Portsmouth harbor, and whether he had gone ashore without leaving word or had fallen overboard. The body and clothing both correspond to the description furnished for Schoenies.

LEFT CAR AT END OF LINE

Motorman Craig Then Resigns From the Local Street Railroad

The eight o'clock car from Hampton turned to this city was delayed a half hour on Saturday evening, by the motorman refusing to bring the car in this city and quitting his job at the end of the line.

Curtis Craig was the motorman and he left this city on Saturday night on his regular trip at seven o'clock. When he got to the end of the line he telephoned in, it is alleged, that he was through and that somebody else would have to bring the car back he wouldn't.

The crew operating the North Hampton car were within a short distance of the dispatcher's office and the motorman from that car was taken off and he arrived in time to bring in the car a half hour late.

Mr. Craig's resignation was accepted and he was ordered to turn in his stuff at once.

BURGLARY AND
BOLD BEGGARYThe Kind of Cases Before Police

Michael Meehan, who was arrested on Saturday night while doing the crippled hand dodge at the North End, was up this morning charged with being a tramp. Officer Seymour blocked the game and today Meehan was tossed over in the sum of $300 for his appearance before the grand jury in October. He could get no bail and went to jail.

This case against him was not pressed but a suspended sentence of a former case was brought forward and Morse will go up the line for six months.

James Donnelly, another one of this famous old society, pleaded not guilty when charged with being a public vagabond. He said, however, that he was drunk but did not remember of insulting any one or asking aid. Later he changed his plea and the court gave him a suspended sentence.
